Design is an intuition, an outcome of a subconscious thought that leads us to a deeper sense of knowing and offering four major streamlines as Communication Design, Industrial Design, Fashion Communication and Fashion Design in the form of four year Graduate Degree comprising eight Semesters.

Intuition is akin to an elongated insight that tells us we are on to something dynamic to face the competitive world of design.

Design also involves reason that assesses the problem and analyzes the possibilities for solution. It is the analytical process that relies on method and logic to assess, refine, and verify its various hypotheses. At SID, this reflects in the evaluation methods of the students' project based assignments on the basis of daily performances.

- Method of Instruction

Learning methodology includes interactive seminars and group discussions, audio-visuals, lectures and guest speakers / experts, visits and workshops, team learning through projects and assignments, and self-learning through library reference and internships.
